Hi Chris,

We are going to be encouraging more businesses to put up "No Trespassing" signs in their doorways. This is specifically to discourage transients from sleeping in doorways. My question is, can the police enforce no trespassing in doorways when the sign is there, without having a trespass arrest authorization form on file? If I understood you correctly before, I think those forms are mostly for vacant buildings and it gives officers permission to enter and enforce the no trespass.

Thanks!

Sincerely,
